Blago on deck

All eyes on former governor as defense gets into gear

Rod Blagojevich has loaded the witness list in his corruption trial with star power, but no one's performance will matter as much—or be as highly anticipated—as his own. Here are some elements in the ex-governor's defense. TRIBUNE

1 The ex-governor is expected to take the stand early this week, following testimony from his sister-in-law and his estranged brother, Robert, who also is charged with what prosecutors have described as a “political crime spree.”

2 Rod Blagojevich is not required to testify in his own defense, but legal experts contend that his team had little choice after his lawyers’ often repeated and very public promises for him to do so.

3 Letting Blagojevich testify comes with considerable risk. He is notorious for his rambling responses, a tendency for quoting the poet Rudyard Kipling and a habit of comparing himself to historic figures such as Mahatma Gandhi.

4 The defense, which presents its side starting Monday, will attempt to show that Blagojevich had no intention of committing any crimes when he led discussions about bolstering his campaign coffers in the weeks before his arrest.

5 The judge told Blagojevich’s lawyers they may need to call him first because he essentially is a foundation witness in his own case, and follow-up witnesses would corroborate his testimony. He could testify a second time as well.

6 Since the trial’s opening statements, predicting Blagojevich’s courtroom performance has been a popular game among legal experts and journalists following the case.

7 Though Blagojevich has spent the 19 months since his arrest proclaiming his innocence, he largely has avoided specific questions about his actions and the contents of various wiretaps.

8 Blagojevich’s natural reflex always has been to play to the crowd. He’ll say or do almost anything to curry favor, even if it means playing the fool on reality TV or praying with strangers outside the courthouse.

9 The defense also has promised that Patti Blagojevich will testify on her husband’s behalf.

10 Never charged with a crime, Patti Blagojevich won some public affection last year after appearing on “I’m a Celebrity, Get Me Out of Here!” in which she lived in a jungle with D-list celebrities.

PROFESSIONAL OPINIONS

Here’s what some legal experts have to say about the trial. TRIBUNE

“I should think that the defense will be losing a lot of sleep over this. ... He can’t keep his mouth shut, so you worry that he’s going to open himself up to things he shouldn’t.”

—Leonard Cavise, a DePaul University law professor who has been attending the trial

“The lawyer in him is going to try to outfox the other lawyers, and the politician in him will want to campaign for the jury’s vote. ... That’s a very dangerous combination.”

—criminal-defense attorney Steven Greenberg

“It’s dangerous. ... The government has six years of information that they’re ready to use. He’s opening himself to anything in their arsenal.”

—Richard Kling, a professor at Chicago-Kent College of Law

My fairly useless travel lessons

You know how when you travel, you learn some very important lessons, but those lessons are applicable only to that specific trip and will never help you nor anyone else in the future?

This is exactly what happened to me on my recent tour of Germany and Switzerland. Still, I feel as if I should share my knowledge in case my grandson someday needs it.

First and most importantly, do not travel with a group of guys named "Steve, Scott, Mike, Brian and Kyle." You will tell German law students your names, and they will laugh at you and ask why no one is named Mickey Mouse.

Do not go to a place called the AlpenRock House at the Zurich Airport. This is a club in the suburb of Kloten, where we stayed. Because the drinking age in Switzerland is 16, the median age at AlpenRock was probably 15 (everyone knows at least a quarter of the people in any given bar are using a fake ID).

This made us all feel profoundly old and creepy—not to mention they kept playing terrible American songs from the 1990s such as "Cotton-Eyed Joe." It was like time traveling back to a middle school dance, except partaking in a slow song might have gotten me arrested.

If you're looking for food in Kloten at 4 a.m. and everything's closed, do not wander to the train station vending machine and buy something called a BiFi Pizza Snack Canazza XXL.

This is a cold, pizza-flavored hunk of processed sodium with the consistency of tire tread. You will never regret anything more than eating this.

If you learn only one German phrase, do not let it be "Kahn ich dein Papa Schlumpf sein?" because asking someone "Can I be your Papa Smurf?" is basically useless.

Do not stay at the Balmer's Herberge, which is a famous hostel in Interlaken. The hostel is fine, but it is overrun by "travel Chachis" who talk like this:

"What's up, bra? You American? Cool. Just got blitzkrieged on the night train from Barcelona, and Spain won the World Cup, so no complaints here, bra. Where we been? Everywhere, bra, everywhere. Don't even know where I'm from anymore. Well, Dallas, I mean, I'm from Dallas, but I've been to 13 European cities and drank in the hostel bar of every one. Just living life, you know, bra? Just living life."

Finally, if you're staying in a hostel in Frankfurt's red light district and have so far managed to avoid invitations from sad-eyed, world-worn women working the peepshows and XXX clubs, and you hear what sounds like a Russian gangster shouting into a cell phone outside your window at 2 a.m. do not, whatever you do, go buy a BiFi Pizza Snack Canazza XXL.

Seriously, one day I'll sit my grandson on my knee and tell him that.

GUNNED DOWN IN UNIFORM

THIRD OFFICER KILLED IN 2 MONTHS WAS WEEKS FROM HIS RETIREMENT

Chicago Tribune

The third Chicago police officer killed in the past two months was gunned down Sunday morning by men trying to rob him or steal his new Buick Regal, a gift the officer bought for himself in anticipation of his retirement, police said.

Officer Michael Bailey, 62, a 20-year veteran due to hang up his gun in weeks, was shot in front of his Park Manor home after an overnight shift guarding Mayor Daley's house. Bailey, a married father of three, was about a month away from turning 63, the mandatory retirement age for Chicago police officers.

Bailey was in his uniform shining his prized black Buick when he was attacked about 6 a.m., a police source said. He identified himself as an officer before exchanging gunfire with at least one of the men, the source said, citing early reports.

Ryane and Angelee Cook, Bailey's neigh-

At least 7 shot across city

In addition to the Chicago police officer slain as he returned home from work, at least seven other people were wounded in shootings in Chicago on Saturday night and Sunday morning, according to police and fire officials.

bors, already were awake when they heard gunshots. Angelee Cook said she looked out the window but didn't see anything. Then the couple heard Bailey's daughter, Jada, screaming, "They shot my daddy! Somebody shot my daddy!"

Bailey's son, Michael, was home, and grabbed one of his father's guns and ran outside to defend his dad, police said. It was unclear whether the son fired any shots at the attackers. A neighbor, Idella Jennings, said she saw him standing over his father yelling, "Daddy, get up!"

Bailey was lying on the ground in front of his car. In the grass nearby was a bottle of Windex.

"He's had the car three weeks. Every time he came home, he wiped it down," said Angelee Cook, whose husband said he felt Bailey's pulse.

The shooting took place about 6 a.m. in the 7400 block of South Evans Avenue, police said. Bailey was pronounced dead at 6:41 a.m. at Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

At the scene later, there were as many as 17 police evidence markers, apparently showing the locations of shell casings and what appeared to be a handgun. Dozens of detectives scoured the scene until early Sunday evening.

According to police bulletins, officers are seeking an older model tan Ford pickup truck that may have bullet holes on the driver's side.

SOURCES: CHICAGO POLICE MEMORIAL FOUNDATION AND TRIBUNE ARCHIVES

It last was seen heading south on Evans.

The killing marks the third shooting death of a Chicago officer in the past two months. On July 7, Officer Thor Soderberg was in uniform leaving a police facility in the Englewood neighborhood when he got into a struggle with a man who took his gun and shot him. On May 19, Officer Thomas Wortham IV, just back from a second tour in Iraq, was shot outside his parents' home in Chatham.

The Bailey and Wortham shootings have striking similarities.

Wortham's killers also tried to rob him, attempting to steal his motorcycle. Wortham's father, a retired Chicago police officer, came to his son's aid. He retrieved his gun inside the home and shot at his son's assailants.

Ald. Freddrenna Lyle (6th), who represents parts of Park Manor and the part of Chatham where Wortham was killed, said some residents have considered leaving the area.

"How do you convince people to stay in a community when you have armed police officers shot down?" Lyle said. "It's devastating. ... It's like a war out here. I never thought that in my life it would be this way."

Lyle said the problems in the community are a result of the loss of the blue-collar jobs and the inadvertent effects of tearing down public-housing high rises and sending their occupants into neighborhoods where they have fewer nearby resources.

Bailey was assigned to the central district and had been stationed overnight at the mayor's home.

"This is a tragic, stunning reminder of the senseless violence that stalks too many of our neighborhoods," Daley said in a statement. "Another Chicago police officer gunned down, this time just weeks before leaving a long career of protecting Chicago. It's absolutely outrageous. ... I knew him. He was a good man. He did not deserve this."

Police Superintendent Jody Weis was out of town Sunday tending to the affairs of a family member who recently died, a police spokesman said.

Obama to speak at Giannoulis fundraiser

President Obama will headline a Chicago fundraiser Aug. 5 for Democrat Senate candidate Alexi Giannoulis, his campaign announced Sunday. The fundraiser announcement, which was confirmed by the White House, comes on the heels of the one-term state treasurer announcing that he is trailing Republican opponent Mark Kirk in fundraising by a significant margin.

Investigation into baby's death

Chicago Police were questioning a suspect in the death of a 21-month-old boy Sunday in Bronzeville. Jaymeon Wyatt was declared dead at the University of Chicago's Comer Children's Hospital, according to the Cook County medical examiner's office. It is suspected Jaymeon may have died of head trauma suffered in child abuse, according to the office.

3 arrested for harassment

Three men were arrested Sunday for throwing objects at an off-duty police officer's vehicle, after he identified himself as an officer, police said. About 2:45 a.m., an off-duty police officer was driving an unmarked vehicle in the 2200 block of West 19th Street when three men began to harass the officer, Monroe District police said.

Man falls on Red Line tracks

A man was seriously injured after falling on Red Line tracks in Lakeview on Saturday. The man was taken to Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center in serious-to-critical condition. He fell on the "L" tracks in the 3900 block of North Sheridan Road—near the Sheridan stop at 3940 N. Sheridan Road.

Afghan, Pakistani leaders sign pact

1 ISLAMABAD, Pakistan and Afghanistan signed a landmark trade agreement Sunday night, with Secretary of State Hillary Clinton witnessing the deal as part of American efforts to bring the two countries closer together.

Clinton

Washington is hailing the deal as the most significant bilateral treaty yet between the estranged neighbors, both of which are U.S. allies in the battle against al-Qaida and the Taliban. The agreement was 46 years in the making but pushed by the Obama administration over the last 15 months, senior U.S. officials said.

"Bringing Islamabad and Kabul together has been a goal of this administration from the beginning," said Richard Holbrooke, the U.S. special representative for the region. "This is a vivid demonstration of the two countries coming closer together."

Clinton arrived in Pakistan early Sunday as Washington struggles to change its relationship with "one of the most critical countries in the world," according to a top U.S. official. The secretary is on her way to Afghanistan, but the visit to Pakistan is just as important, Holbrooke said.

The top leaders of the al-Qaida terrorist network, the perpetrators of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on New York and Washington, are believed to be hiding along the rugged Afghanistan-Pakistan frontier, while U.S. and allied troops are battling Taliban militants in Afghanistan and nuclear-armed Pakistan is battling its own Taliban insurgency.

Holbrooke said to make progress, "we need to change the core of the relationship" between the U.S., Pakistan and Afghanistan.

June warmest on record

Last month was the warmest June on record worldwide, according to a report from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Warmer-than-average conditions were present across nearly all continents, according to another report.

2 killed in flash floods

2 Waters receded Sunday as rescue crews conducted searches after flash flooding in eastern Kentucky killed at least two people. Officials estimate 200 homes in the area were damaged or destroyed.

Party turns deadly

3 Seventeen people were killed and 10 injured in an attack on a party Sunday in Torreon, Mexico, the state-run news agency Notimex reported, citing a representative of the federal attorney's general office.

Leak found near well

4 The federal government is worried about a substance seeping near BP's sealed oil well and is demanding that the company monitor the sea bed and be prepared to reopen the well if new oil leaks spring up.

What's wrong with Tiger?

Woods stumbles through another major tournament as a nonfactor

Reuters

Tiger Woods was delighted with his performance from tee to green and in despair over his putting after the British Open final round Sunday.

"I drove it great all week, hit my irons pretty good and did not putt well except for the first day," the world's top-ranked player told reporters after a closing 72 gave him a 3-under tally of 285.

"I feel satisfaction in the sense I drove it on a string all week and hit my irons pretty good (but) you just can't play and expect to win golf tournaments if you have nine or 10 three-putts for a week.

"No one can win doing that. Driving-wise it's better than it's been in years. Iron play, not quite as sharp as I need to have it, and my putting is way off.

"I've got to clean that up before I tee it up again."

At the start of the week Woods took the radical step of ditching the putter he had used for 11 years in favor of a new Nike model.

The 34-year-old put the old wand back in his bag Sunday but was unable to exorcise the putting demons that had haunted him for the previous two rounds at St. Andrews.

"The greens were a little bit faster today than they were the first day," Woods said. "I just didn't feel comfortable with my speed so I went back to my old putter.

"That's just the way it goes. I'm not going to win all of them; I've lost a lot more than I've won."

PLAY

'Little League World Series 2010,' 'Little League World Series Double Play'

Both available Tuesday

Enjoy the excitement of Little League ball on your Xbox, Wii and PlayStation—minus the temper tantrums. Or not, depending on how seriously you take it. If you can manage to snag the championship, perhaps you'll win a postgame juice box and cookies.

READ

'Year of the Blackhawks'

Available Tuesday

Relive the magical 2009-10 Blackhawks season "through stunning photos and the best hockey writing available," according to amazon.com. This is the paperback version of the one previously released, sort of like how the 2010-11 Blackhawks will be a weaker version of the Cup winners.

MEET

Dave Bolland

Bolland, a member of the aforementioned Cup champion Blackhawks, will sign copies of the NHL Stanley Cup Champions 2009-2010 DVD at Meijer in Orland Park (15701 71st Court) from 6-8 p.m. Tuesday.

ATTEND

Fire vs. Pumas UNAM

8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Toyota Park

It's not the World Cup, but the SuperLiga tourney finds the best team from Mexico's Primera Division and Major League Soccer and awards them $1 million. The Fire are 0-2 in SuperLiga play, so they need this one.

WATCH

Tour de France final stage

7 a.m. Sunday, Vs.

Three weeks of grueling cycling comes to an end. So does the Tour de France career of Lance Armstrong, who says this is his last tour.

Oosthuizen who?

South Africa's Louis Oosthuizen (above), 27, turned the British Open into a procession Sunday, winning the famed Claret Jug after crushing the world's best by seven strokes at the home of golf.

"I would like to take this opportunity to say happy birthday to Mr. Nelson Mandela back in South Africa," Oosthuizen said after being presented with the trophy on the 18th green.

It was the former South African president's 92nd birthday on Sunday.

1 What didn't we see on the White Sox reality series that we should have?

Ozzie and Carlos Zambrano having dinner. It would have been one long [bleep].

The controversial scene in which Snooki punches A.J. Pierzynski.

That time Hawk and Ozzie won a breakdancing contest to save the rec center. Wait, that was "Breakin' 2"?

I was hoping to see a boob and all I got was A.J. Pierzynski.

Nobody hooked up with a Kardashian. Very disappointing.

2 How long will the Sox hold on first place?

As long as Leo has held onto to his Beanie Babies collection.

So long as they don't take swing advice from Tiger Woods, I say through September.

Until they get to Oakland. I would make a Too Short reference, but I can't curse in the paper.

Better question: When will Sox fans finally give hitting coach Greg Walker some credit?

Longer than their fans' mullets.

3 Why has ESPN showcased the Cubs on three straight Sunday nights (including next week)?

They were voted in by all other baseball teams. Watching the Cubs makes them all look better.

They decided to turn "The Decision" into a series: "The Decision to Forfeit Your Dignity."

Because they're testing the idea of showing live executions on TV, and this is a good way to start.

They're like a car crash. You want to look away but you can't.

The cringe factor. The Cubs are to good baseball as Mel Gibson is to marital bliss.

4 What Chicago athlete would make a good Transformer?

Patrick Kane went from outhouse to penthouse in less than a year. Big transformation.

Jay Cutler, Interception?

Joakim Noah. He transformed from a d-bag Gator I hate to a d-bag Bull I root for.

Not sure, although I've seen many Sox fans turn into the fickle-minded "WindSox."

LeBron. Didn't he suddenly transform into Kyle Korver and Ronnie Brewer?

5 When will Tiger Woods ever win a tournament again?

When he figures out he needs to be a golf swinger, not just a swinger.

Hey, if ever there were a divorce settlements tournament, our man would be fist-pumping all over the place.

Once he gets his mind on hitting the right hole. Hi-yo! Thank you, you've all been a great audience.

What? So we care about his golf game again? That's new.

I hear he's participating in a "choose your partner" tourney next. He's good at those.

Minnesota's Delmon Young is congratulated by teammates after driving in the winning run Sunday against the White Sox. mct

MINNESOTA 7, WHITE SOX 6

Sox sunk

About five hours after manager Ozzie Guillen expressed the importance of not playing scared, the White Sox tested that theme after suffering arguably their toughest loss of the season.

With a three-run lead and three outs away from extending their lead in the American League Central, the Sox allowed Minnesota to score four runs in the bottom of the ninth to seize a 7-6 win.

"I didn't have it," closer Bobby Jenks said after failing to retire any of the four batters he faced and blowing his first save since May 9. "My cutter was coming back. My sinker wasn't sinking. The slider was big. I just didn't have my stuff."

It's time for the Sox to take inventory after losing their third consecutive game and allowing Minnesota to move into a second-place tie with Detroit at 1 1/2 games back.

Big Z to pitch for Iowa

Carlos Zambrano will begin his rehab with an appearance for Ryne Sandberg's Iowa Cubs, perhaps as soon as Wednesday, but he won't rejoin the Cubs while they are still at Wrigley Field. That means he won't return until the Cubs go to Houston and Colorado beginning July 26, at the earliest.
» Cubs 11, Philadelphia 6

The Sox (50-42) fell to 17-20 against division opponents in front of scouts from Atlanta, Florida, Boston and the New York Mets.

"We're not going to win the division if we don't beat our own division, clear as that," Guillen said after snapping twice at a reporter for holding his microphone six inches from his face. "If we don't win against our division, we're done."

» Christophe Riblon of France won the Tour de France's first stage in the Pyrenees on Sunday, while Andy Schleck fended off challenges from Alberto Contador to remain the race's overall leader.

—Heat guard Dwyane Wade to nbafanhouse.com

"We're going to be wearing a bull's-eye. But that's what you play for. We enjoy the bull's-eye. Plus, there's going to be times when we lose 2-3 games in a row, and it seems like the world has crashed down."

My fantasy restaurant

Got ideas for your dream dining spot? Here's what's on people's menus

By Alec Quig

If you like food, you've probably spent time thinking about your dream restaurant: how the decor might look, what the servers would wear, what the name should be. And most important, what kind of food you'd serve. We challenged readers to give us pie-in-the-sky menu ideas for fantasy restaurants of their own—and then added our own real-life suggestions that might tide them over until they manage to win over investors for their creative concepts.

Do you have foodie dreams too? Go to metromix.com to tell us about your dream cafe, supper club, breakfast joint, etc. and your ideas could be voted into the My Fantasy Restaurant design.

"I'd do vegetarian Puerto Rican. My friend's mom is Puerto Rican and makes things like plantains, boiled and fried, with cornmeal wrapped in banana leaf. I would also hire a Puerto Rican mother-in-law who would come to your table and nag you, making sure you cleaned your plate."

Like Puerto Rican eats? Go to Sabor Latino, 3810 W. North Ave. 773-227-5254; 3400 W. Fullerton Ave. 773-276-3254

"Indian and Chinese fusion. Most importantly: fried banana chocolate wontons with coconut ice cream, drenched with chocolate and caramel sauce."

Like fusion? Go to Ruxbin Kitchen, 851 N. Ashland Ave. 312-624-8509 (and try the K-Town empanadas, kim chee-filled empanadas)

Nick Allen

25, Avondale

"I'd have a frying bar. Kind of like Flat Top Grill but with different things to fry in. So you could fry steak, hot dogs and arugula in corn or peanut oil, in beer or flour batter, with wasabi or chocolate."

Like all things fried? Go to Joey's Shrimp House, 1432 N. Western Ave. 773-772-1400

Sean Iams

28, Roscoe Village

"I'd like to see a restaurant that served the simplest of everything. So you know it hadn't been [messed] with. Like, the chef makes cereal-like, crispified oats with all-natural blueberries and dehydrated cherries that were dehydrated yesterday. Or bibimbap, American-style. Or I'd just expand the naked sushi concept, but with club sandwiches."

Like wild waffles and pancakes? Go to Stax Cafe, 1401 W. Taylor St. 312-733-9871

Anna Dundon

23, Gold Coast

"Gourmet tacos but with fillings that probably shouldn't be in tacos: sushi, hamburger, pizza. Even buffalo wings and mozzarella sticks. All could be mini-tacos if one so chose. Lots of dessert tacos."

Like gourmet tacos? Go to Mercadito, 108 W. Kinzie St. 312-329-9555

Cancer

June 22-July 22
As the sun leaves your sign, you're taking stock of your personal life. Recently you've made some positive changes. You've stopped drunk dialing your ex; you've cut back on the trips to the strip clubs and stopped signing up for porn sites. Good for you.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

You've been hoping for a raise. At the very least, you expected to win the lottery by now. Unfortunately, Jupiter isn't helping you any. Financial matters are still in flux. Release stress by hanging out with that sexy friend.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

You could find yourself attracted to someone who is superior in bed but inferior when it comes to paying bills and acting responsibly. Saturn is showing you that sexual attraction can often lead you into some ill-advised territory.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

With Saturn moving into your sign, you'll be focused on finding that perfect balance between your personal and professional life. You want to be creatively engaged in your work and emotionally satisfied with your honey. You can get there if you try.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

You might give your partner an ultimatum. A moon square is decreasing your tolerance for inappropriate behavior. If your honey is two-timing you, even if it's just sending sext messages to someone, you'll want to give him or her a smack in the head.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Mercury is helping you access your swinging side. Although someone might think he or she has your exclusive attention, you're secretly flirting up a storm with others. At some point, these entanglements are likely to trip you up.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

A spirit of reunion is in the air, thanks to Venus. That on-again, off-again relationship is on again. Or you'll meet up with your high school sweetheart and rediscover those hot feelings you once had for each other. The plot thickens.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Be patient with yourself and your significant other for a few weeks. The sun opposite your sign is creating some chaos, but try to laugh it off. So your boyfriend accidentally threw your car keys in the trash compactor. So your girlfriend stepped on your iPhone. Stuff happens.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You'll want to force your way into someone's heart, but it won't work. Mars is stirring up aggressive feelings. You want to get your way, no matter what. But the person you're wooing will respond better to a lighthearted, flirtatious style.

Aries March 21-April 19

You're going through a midlife crisis, even if you're just 22. Saturn has you reconsidering every major life decision you've made in the past 10 years. Why did you marry a mortician? Why did you fall in love with a cougar who has 10 kids?

Taurus April 20-May 20

Your lover is craving some spice in the bedroom but you're providing a meat-and-potatoes experience. Venus is reminding you that it's not good enough to get someone interested in you. You also need to keep his or her interest.

Gemini

May 21-June 21

The moon is creating some sexual tension. If you're single, you'll want to put an end to that unfortunate state ASAP. If you're in a relationship, you'll want to overdose on sensual pleasure and ignore the outside world for a while.

GOT A TIP?

Do you have a hot tip on a celebrity sighting in Chicago? E-mail Luis or tweet him @luisarroyave.

'Transformers' cast, director take the town

The next time your friend or co-worker tells you he or she can't go out because of a big test or presentation at work the next day, mention a guy named Michael Bay.

The 45-year-old director hung out at Cuvee into the early hours of Saturday and still made it to the "Transformers 3" set in the morning to film base jumpers and fireballs on one of the busiest streets in Chicago.

And if your friend tries playing the

"I'm too tired" or "I've already been out twice this week" cards, tell him that Bay returned to Cuvee on Saturday night after the Michigan Avenue shoot and has visited the River North club four times in a span of eight days.

Maybe Bay is hard-core. He does have a reputation for being an adrenaline junkie. Or maybe he has a hard time falling asleep early and would rather spend the night at a club than at his hotel watching "Cheaters" re-runs.

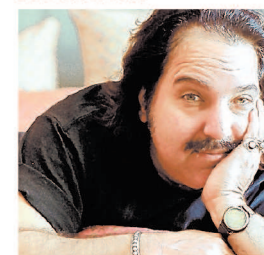

Josh Duhamel

As for his "Transformers 3" cast, Josh Duhamel and his wife, Fergie, had an early dinner at Hub 51 on Tuesday. They dined at Cibo Matto in the Wit hotel on Thursday and headed up to Roof on the 27th floor for drinks afterward.

Co-star Patrick Dempsey had dinner at Sunda on Wednesday (Bay ate there Saturday night) and Tyrese Gibson dined at Japonais on July 11 (Bay ate there July 10). FOR MORE LUIS, GO TO CHICAGOTRIBUNE.COM/ABOUTLASTNIGHT

What would Kim do?

EW.com asked Mindy Kaling of "The Office" to reveal a shameful secret about herself. Here's her shocking confession: "Sometimes when I'm going out and wearing something that's a little bit tight and risqué, I actually think to myself, 'OK, just rock this like a Kardashian sister,' and it totally works. I look at myself and say, 'Khloe Kardashian would wear this sprayed-on dress!'"

Michigan Avenue mayhem

Find out where the stars and director have been drinking and dining.
PAGE 26

Michael Bay blew up Michigan Avenue this weekend. The "Transformers 3" director and stars Shia LeBeouf, Patrick Dempsey and Rosie Huntington-Whiteley were on hand for the faux-chaos Sunday. From the Tribune Tower windows, RedEye had a great view of a gnarly scene involving fire, explosions, flying debris and smashed-up cars being yanked down the street by wires.

Portrait of a screw-up

Aaron Sorkin memorably created a president in "The West Wing" and now he will capture a could-have-been president, Variety reports. Sorkin will make his directorial movie debut with a John Edwards biopic, based on a book by an Edwards aide. No word yet on who will play the North Carolina skirt chaser.

Gabby's new dream man

Gabourey Sidibe doesn't keep her crushes quiet. The "Precious" star long has harbored lustful feelings for Justin Timberlake, and she told People about her latest fantasy man. "I'm super crushing on Trey Songz," she said. "I used to listen to his music when I worked in an office, and when I met him a few weeks ago, I couldn't contain my excitement." Sidibe also admitted that she asked the singer: "Do you want to date? We could just get married!"

Here's who's going to 'Rehab'

Former "Hills" star Jason Wahler and model manager Janice Dickinson are among the "stars" set to appear on the fourth season of VH1's "Celebrity Rehab," the network announced Sunday. "Party of Five" star Jeremy London, former Tiger Woods mistress Rachel Uchitel and singer Leif Garrett are a few others who will be checking in. You've likely never heard of the other two rehabbers.

Cage trips with kitty

Nicolas Cage took hallucinogenic mushrooms with his cat. Cage recently told David Letterman that a bag of shrooms was in his fridge and Lewis the cat pulled the door open and got into the stash. So Cage decided he might as well join his pet; he and Lewis then spent hours staring at each other. He told Letterman: "I remember lying on my bed for hours and Lewis was on the desk ... and we just stared at each other for hours ... and I had no doubt that he was my brother."
